

My father informed me that a couple of weeks ago, he read in the newspaper that the FCC seeks to relax decency standards on broadcast television, only prosecuting cases that are egregious. This will open a floodgate of language, violence and nudity on broadcast television that will be harmful to our families and society. This will certainly lead to a more violent society. As a mother, youth leader, and citizen who has seen firsthand the effects of immodesty in language and behavior, I urge you not to allow this. Please do not relax any standards and fully enforce those that are in place.
